Informational Meeting — Plum Street Tiny House Village on Thursday, January 17, 2019

In early February, a new tiny house village for 40 homeless individuals will open its doors in Olympia. The public is invited to learn more about Plum Street Village at an information meeting on Thursday, January 17, at 6 p.m., in Room A of the Olympia Center, at 222 Columbia St. NW. Following a presentation by the Low Income Housing Institute (LIHI), there will be an opportunity for the public to ask questions about the project.

Open House — Plum Street Tiny House Village on Thursday, January 31, 2019

An additional opportunity to learn about Plum Street Village will be an open house at the village on Thursday, January 31, from 3-6 p.m. The village is located at 830 Union Ave SE, which is the City's former plant nursery behind the Yashiro Japanese Garden. Come see the facility before residents move in and learn more about the operation and the volunteer builders who made it happen.

About Plum Street Village for Homeless Individuals

The City of Olympia is leasing property and providing funding to the Low Income Housing Institute (LIHI) for the operation of this village. The village will include about 30 tiny houses for individuals and couples without children. Each unit is 8' x 12', is insulated, has electricity and heat, a window and a lockable door. The facility will also include a security house, a communal kitchen, meeting space, bathrooms, showers, laundry, a case management office and 24/7 staffing.

Learn More and Stay Informed

In a few weeks, the City of Olympia will launch a community-led planning process to determine how we, along with regional partners, will respond long-term to homelessness and its impacts.
