Significance of property: Historic Importance, Architectural Importance

B. Supporting Documents ("submittals"):

1. This lovely house was built in 1923 for John O. Sandberg and Ella Marie (Olson) Sandberg. John Sandberg, born in 1875 in Sweden, immigrated to the United States in 1896. He married Ella Marie Olson, also an immigrant from Sweden, in 1902. Before the Sandbergs moved to Olympia, they lived in Tacoma where John Sandberg worked as a millwright. He was said to have been one of the original founders of the Olympia Veneer Plant, which "...was founded in 1921 as a revolutionary example of a cooperative company, owned by its workers..." In 1928, John Sandberg's older daughter, Evelyn, married Olof Anderson, one of the Anderson brothers who owned the Tumwater Lumber Mills. John Sandberg died in Olympia in 1954. His widow sold the house to first generation Norwegians Melvin and Anna Kjorlang in 1961. Ella Marie Sandberg then moved to Centralia and passed away in 1966. Both John and Ella are buried in the (Old) Tacoma Cemetery in Tacoma, Washington.
2. The Sandberg House is a one and a half story Craftsman Double Front-Gabled Bungalow which features two front facing gables; one on the porch and the other on the house façade. These gables have large "knee brackets" that look as if they support the roof. The roof is composition and the exterior is cedar wood siding. Most of the double hung windows are original and were renovated in 2017. However, previous owners had replaced four of the windows with vinyl window frames. One window has already been restored to the original double hung appearance and the goal is to restore the other three windows as time and finances allow. Other exterior portions of the house, such as the wood frame, appear to be intact from the original building.
Most of the downstairs interior remains intact, including the built in bookcases as well as the fireplace tiles. These tiles are mustard and burnt orange in color and several of them feature 'country' scenes including a home with tree and moon, laborers working in the fields, and trees set in a circle. These particular tiles appear to be unique to this house. Unfortunately when the kitchen was remodeled by the previous owners, the kitchen tile was replaced with a vinyl backsplash. Although I have found pieces of the original kitchen tile in the backyard, I am not hopeful about finding and replacing the vinyl backsplash with the original tile, although I am looking at restoring the backsplash with tile that would be consistent with the Craftsman style of the house.

1. Statement of Significance:

This property is important to the history of Olympia because John Sandberg, the builder and first owner of the house, played a significant part in the early history of Olympia, including being one of the founding members of the Olympia Veneer Plant (founded in 1921). In addition, Sandberg, a Swedish immigrant, as well as the second owner Melvin Kjorlang, a first generation Norwegian, were typical of the influence and the contributions of the Scandinavian community to Olympia.

This house is significant in that it is an excellent and well preserved example of a double front-gabled Craftsman Bungalow. As per Professor Robert Schweitzer, "This more complex design gained its popularity in the late 1910s and early 1920s..." and is characterized by "...the two front gables; one on the porch and the other on the house façade. These triangular gables are not lined up directly behind each other but offset to highlight the feature..."
