	A well-maintained Spanish Colonial Revival style home, the house was built by L. E. Dawley in 1923 in a design by his brother J. M. Dawley. The Dawley Brothers were local contractors who built, among others, the Capital Park Building. The Dawley House is a rectangular, two-story structure built in the Spanish Colonial Revival style on a poured concrete foundation. Its gabled roof is tiled and has close eaves. Walls are of textured stucco, and stucco chimney rises on the west wall. Centered on the front (north) facade, a recessed porch with a wrought iron gate framed by pilasters and a prominent head molding shelters the main entry door. Flanking the porch are multi-paned arched windows with broad panelled shutters, and above it is a triple-arched, multi-paned window fronted by a bracketed wrought iron balcony. Other fenestration is shuttered double-hung sash with eight-over-eight and eight-over-one lights. Projecting from the east wall is a one-story, gable-roofed garage with double doors fronted by arches.
