STATEMENT FROM MAYOR CHERYL SELBY

As we embark on our fifth week of Olympia's COVID-19 state of emergency, it is time to acknowledge our shared sacrifice and update you on current and future responses to the COVID-19 crisis.

First off, I want to thank our residents for showing grit and resiliency as we grapple with one of the most significant public health threats in a century.

OLYMPIA CITY COUNCIL RETURNING TO REMOTE MEETINGS With COVID-19 cases on the rise in the community, City Council will once again hold its regular meetings remotely over Zoom. The City Council next meets on Tuesday, August 10, 2021, for a 5:30 p.m. study session, followed by a business meeting at 7 p.m. More info: https://us18.campaignarchive.com/...

The Elected Official's Role: After

Guiding the Recovery Process: Thurston Region Disaster Recovery Framework

When does the Federal Government Help?

Public Assistance - Threshold for Eligibility

- Washington $10,000,000 and Thurston $1,000,000
- Repairing Infrastructure and Emergency Work
- Ex. 2020 February Storm vs 2019 Snow-Pocalypse

Individual Assistance - Narrative

• Homes, Private Property, Other losses

CARES Act, American Rescue Plan Act

When/Why do we make a declaration?

Is Olympia able to respond effectively within current (non-emergency) authorities?

Will the declaration/proclamation provide additional resources and/or authorities to respond?

Is the declaration/proclamation necessary to receive additional resources at the state or federal level?

If the answers are yes/no/no, is the situation severe enough that a public statement declaring an emergency is warranted?

Winter Weather Outlook

There is a 70-80% chance of La Nina continuing through winter 2021-2022.

La Nina is typically associated with cooler and wetter than average conditions.

When it Snows...

- Emergency Management receives briefings from the National Weather Service.
- Transportation, Homeless response, Parks and other key stake holders are notified and prepare.
- If necessary, the EOC is activated to support operations, inform city council, staff, and public, and document for potential reimbursement.
- Conduct After Action Review.

Thank you!
