Background and Analysis:

In May of each year, the Olympia City Council recognizes individuals and organizations who have made important contributions to historic preservation in Olympia. The Olympia Heritage Commission has nominated five awardees for recognition in 2022. The nominations were reviewed by the CLPS Committee and are unanimously recommended for Council approval.

Heritage awards have traditionally recognized brick-and-mortar preservation efforts, historic research, and interpretive projects. Last year however, the Commission brought forward nominations recognizing other ways that local heritage is meaningfully shared, including the work of a local playwright and a documentary film producer among our nominees.

This year the Commission continues the effort to recognize a broad range of heritage resources that shape Olympia's character and identity, while continuing to also highlight excellence in traditional preservation.

In that spirit, the nominees for 2022 include three very different small businesses that have stood the test of time to become local landmarks in our community, who the commission proposes to recognize as Olympia Legacy Businesses.

According to American Planning Association, “The definition of “legacy business” varies from locality to locality, but in general the term applies to longstanding, independent enterprises that make a strong contribution to community character. Legacy businesses are cultural anchors, repositories of community traditions and stories. They may be run by what the City of North Miami calls “serial entrepreneurs,” often providing a foothold and place to prosper for immigrants to the United States.” (American Planning Association 2022, PAS Memo #109)

The following nominations for 2022 have been selected and are recommended by the CLPS Committee and the Heritage Commission for approval by City Council. The full text of the nominations, prepared by Heritage Commissioners, are attached.
