Background and Analysis:

Each year the Planning Commission has an opportunity to hold a retreat if it so chooses. In the past, retreats have focused on an issue or issues the Commission would like to have in depth discussions about, or are interested in learning more about. Once potential topics are determined, work can begin to find speakers and a meeting date, and work out other logistic details.

Neighborhood/Community Interests (if known):

None known at this time, although it is likely the topic(s) selected will be of some community interest.
