Background and Analysis:

The Heritage Commission works to promote excellence in historic preservation. To that end, the Commission nominates and recommends recipients for Olympia's Annual Historic Preservation Awards. These awards recognize people, projects, and places that serve as models for preserving and championing our cultural and built heritage.

This year there are four recommended recipients for 2019 Historic Preservation Awards.

Following Council approval, formal presentation of these awards is scheduled for May 16 at the Capitol Theater, at an Olympia Design Month event to be hosted by the Olympia Heritage Commission. That event is free and open to the public and begins at 7 pm.

The 2019 Historic Preservation Award Nominees are:

1. The owners and design team for Well-80 (514 Fourth Ave E), including Chris and Robert Knudson, Tovani Hart Architects, Neil Meyer, Architect; and Bargreen-Ellingson, Restaurant Design.

This award is the first ever to recognize new construction. The Well 80 building is an exemplary model for sympathetic design of a new building within a historic context, and goes even further to celebrate the history of brewing in the interior and the artesian well in its naming.

2. The Board of Directors of TVW, Washington's Public Affairs Network, for their sensitive rehabilitation of the Jeannette C. Hayner Media Center (1058 Capitol Way South). This project is a model for adaptive re-use of a historic commercial property to house creative and educational programming and services.
3. Jackie Wall, former Tribal Historic Preservation Officer, for her dedicated service to cultural resources preservation regionally, and to preservation of Tribal culture and heritage in particular. Her contributions have been exceptional.
4. Michelle Sadlier, former Historic Preservation Officer for the City of Olympia, for her exceptional service to our community. Her professionalism, expertise, and dedication raised awareness of historic preservation and facilitated its integration in Olympia's plans for future growth. Her extraordinary advocacy and leadership reflected a sensitivity to cultural ethnic groups, racial diversity, and an appreciation of the past while looking toward the future.

Neighborhood/Community Interests (if known):
