Background and Analysis:

Each year Council-appointed advisory committees prepare a work plan for initial review by the General Government Committee before consideration by the full Council. Advisory committees' work year begins April 1. The date coincides with the appointment of new members and also allows time after the first of the year for committees to consider any goals and priorities identified at Council's annual retreat.

Committee work plans are typically reviewed in conjunction with a meeting of all the committee chairs and liaisons.

Are there any changes in timing or approach the General Government Committee would like to consider for 2019?
